After a couple of stagnant days, Timminco Ltd. stock was back on the move Wednesday, rising more than 7% heading into afternoon trading.

On Monday, Timminco's wholly-owned subsidiary Becancour Silicon Inc. identified Canadian Solar Inc. as one of its customers under the long-term supply agreement announced by Timminco in early April.

Canadian Solar is expected to purchase up to 5,000 metric tons of solar grade silicon through 2011 at a prices much lower than current contract prices for polysilicon.
