

October 13, 2005

KFx: Hedge Funds wagging the dog?

How does a penny-stock that went public through a reverse merger with a $10,000 shell company owned by a car dealer, overcome a long history of questionable dealings and turn a 30 plus year failed energy scheme into a billion dollar bonanza? By involving the best name in an esoteric segment energy business and appearing to be poised to revolutionize an $8 billion industry. Could it all be real? Well real enough for some of Wall Street's biggest hedge-funds (people who are supposed to know how to spot a scam) to think that they can at least join the band wagon and get away with it.

Today we released a research report on this little mystery, titled Is Lurgi really KFx's savior or just smoke mirrors? Click here [www.asensio.com](http://www.asensio.com "www.asensio.com") to read and make your own decisions.

asensio.com reports are published and distributed solely and exclusively to registered asensio.com subscribers who have read and agreed to the [Mandatory User Agreement](http://www.asensio.com/TermsOfUse.aspx "Mandatory User Agreement") located at [http://www.asensio.com/TermsOfUse.aspx](http://www.asensio.com/TermsOfUse.aspx "Mandatory User Agreement"). This Mandatory User Agreement is included herein in its entirety by reference thereto and by notice of its availability.